Dixon Daily Telegraph, Thirtieth Year 278

GOODFELLOWS CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

EVERY POOR BOY AND GIRL IN DIXON MUST HAVE A CHRISTMAS.

MOTTO; A FULL XMAS STOCKING

Will Do Goodfellows Just as Much Good as the Kiddies to Help in the Work.

Goodfellows, attention! If you want to be a Goodfellow again this year, act now. The Telegraph will, as last year, be the Goodfellows' agent and help all it can, but nothing can be done without the concerted action of the entire membership of the Goodfellow club. Dixon had a big club last year. She must have a bigger one this year. Here is the way to become a member:

Write a letter to the Telegraph, care of the Goodfellow department, and say how many children, or how many families you will be a Goodfellow to. If you will supply a real destitute family of kiddies with everything they need in the way of clothes and a good Christmas dinner as well as the toys and playthings for the Christmas stocking, let us know. If you want to furnish a ton of coal to someone, say so. If you have a big, warm overcoat that you can spare, let us know it. No matter how much or how little you can do, let us know it, and we will tell you where the gifts will do the most good.

Much the better way for you to do your Goodfellow work is to get from the Telegraph the names, addresses and needs of as many persons as you care to take care of, and do your own Christmas shopping, fill your own baskets with the food, toys, etc., take them to the addresses given you, and see the real joy you will bring into some cold little home. You will feel something swelling around your heart when you get out of there and you will feel that you are of more use on this old earth.

If you can't get out to do the shopping yourself, send a cash donation to the Goodfellow club, care of the Telegraph, and the committee in charge of the work (several very generous spirited Dixonites are assisting in this good work) will use your money to buy food, clothing, fuel and toys and take them where they will be most appreciated and do the most good.

The Marquette club, an organization of Dixon men that has been in existence many years, has the honor of being the first to make a donation to the Goodfellow cause this year. Eli Rosenthal, president of the club, has notified the Telegraph that the members of the Marquette club want to head the list with a check for $10.

The time to act is now. Phone, write or notify us in any way, giving us your name, address and telling us what you will do. We will not make your name public.

SEND THE SANTA LETTERS IN NOW

LITTLE FOLKS OF LEE COUNTY ARE ASKED TO WRITE TO THE TELEGRAPH.

The Telegraph has made special arrangements with Santa Claus again this year and Old St. Nicholas wants us to print the letters that the little boys and girls of Lee county write him. He is on the subscription list and will read the paper carefully from now on to get ideas on what kind of toys to put into the sack he will open when he gets to Dixon in his new 1914 model airplane.

Send your letters early, kiddies. Get them to him before his stock is all picked over and the rush is too great. Address them to Santa Claus, care of the Telegraph. Write them carefully and neatly so his stenographers can read them.

HIGH SCHOOL BLANKS MILITARY ACADEMY

CITY CHAMPIONSHIP WAS EASILY GATHERED IN BY NORTH SIDERS.

MANY SPECTACULAR PLAYS

R. R. M. A. Quarter Back Played a Plucky Game—High School Had Many Stars.

The North Dixon high school football team easily won the city championship by defeating the Rock River Military Academy team at Athletic park Saturday afternoon by the score, 32 to 0, although Burke, the speedy little quarter back of the academy team was easily the star of the game, for repeatedly he got away from the bunch and startled players and spectators alike by long runs. But the little general of the military boys was not able to play the game alone and the high school boys' superior team work made them easy victors.

For the high school Ackert, Byers, Schrock, Kurtzrock and Duffy were the stellar players, while the touch downs were made by the following: Ackert 2, Byers, Dollahan and Schrock. Curran kicked two goals.

Shortly after the kick-off Ackert made 20 yards around end for the first touchdown. Curran kicked goal. Burke, quarterback for the academy pushed his team desperately in an effort to regain the lost vantage, but found the going too hard. The high school's second score came in the second period when Ackert again made a long run of 15 yards and planted the ball over the line. Curran kicked an easy goal.

Constant bucking of the line netted the high school boys another touchdown in the third period, Byers and Duffy pounding the line for consistent gains until Dollahan was able to go across the line on a forward pass. Score, high school, 20; academy, 0. Ackert was taken out in this period after spraining his ankle, and Schrock substituted.

The academy team kicked off in the fourth quarter and after numerous end runs by Duffy and Schrock and line bucks by Byers, Schrock was shoved over for the fourth touchdown, Curran failing to kick goal. Byers, soon after this score electrified the crowd with a 40 yard run when he got the ball on a punt but was downed before he could reach the line. He was shoved over a few minutes later plowing through the line for the score. Curran's attempt at goal failed. Score: High school, 32; academy, 0.

Byers was taken out because of a sprained ankle, Sterling going to full back and Church to tackle. Burke of the academy drove his team at top speed in the last of the last quarter and in the last two minutes of play the academy boys played the high school lads off their feet, but failed to score before time was called.

TO LECTURE ON SOIL CULTURE AT NACHUSA

INTERESTING ADDRESS TOMORROW EVE.—PUT IN HITCHING POSTS.

W. E. Taylor, director of soil culture for the Deere Plow company of Moline, will give a lecture tomorrow evening at 7:30 at Nachusa, in the Nachusa hall, which will be of interest to the farmers. All are invited to attend.

The men of Nachusa and vicinity got to work today and placed about thirty hitching posts in convenient places in the town. Visitors at the lecture tomorrow night will find plenty of places to tie.

TRAINING CLASS.
The regular meeting of the teachers' interdenomination training class will be held at the Y. M. C. A. this evening.

MRS. E. P. HESS IS SEVERELY INJURED

DIXON LADY IS HURT BY A SHYING COIT—DRIVERS WERE RECKLESS.

RIB BROKEN; HEAD IS GASHED

Cowards Who Were Driving Sped Away Without Offering Help, Is Reported.

Mrs. E. P. Hess, 1219 Palmyra avenue, suffered a broken rib, a bad gash in the head and severe bruises and abrasions about the body at about 7:40 p. m. Saturday when she was run into by two young fellows who were driving a coit, the drivers exhibiting deplorable lack of manhood by failing to learn the extent of the injuries suffered by the unfortunate lady. Mrs. Hess' family and the officers are now looking for the two fellows who were in the buggy and if their identity can be learned they will be asked to explain why they did not turn back and lend Mrs. Hess aid.

The accident took place as Mrs. Hess was crossing the road to catch the interurban car into the city. The vehicle approached from the west and Mrs. Hess stopped to allow it to pass, when suddenly the jolt jumped to the side and struck her on the shoulder. She was thrown some distance and was in a semi-conscious condition when picked up by her son, who was with her at the time.

She was taken into the house immediately and a physician summoned, when it was found that in addition to the painful bruises and contusions she had received a broken rib on the right side and a bad gash in the head. The injuries will confine Mrs. Hess to the house for some time.

ANNUAL ELKS FAIR COMMENCES TONIGHT

EVERYTHING IS IN READINESS FOR THE LONGEST FOR EVENT.

The eleventh annual fair of the Dixon Elks will begin this evening at Rosbrook hall; every night this week there will be something of interest for the enormous crowds that are sure to attend. The booths have all been set up, some tasty decorations added to the attraction and an enormous supply of Thanksgiving poultry will be on hand for disposition tonight. Music for the dancing this evening will be furnished by Prof. Slothower's orchestra.

TO AID DOMESTIC SCIENCE COURSES

LITERARY PROGRAM AT NORTH DIXON SCHOOLS FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5TH.

On Friday, December 5th, North Dixon schools will hold an afternoon matinee and evening literary program, which bid fair to be the literary school events of the season for these schools.

Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" will be given in the afternoon to all the pupils of the school only, in matinee, while the evening program comprises "Riders to the Sea," "The Land of Heart's Desire" and "The Maker of Dreams" will be for young people of advanced classes and adults in general.

The young ladies of the Domestic Science section, North Dixon high school, have the handling of tickets for the evening.

The ladies of the Phidian Art club and Woman's club of the city are very substantially adding the cause of Domestic Science and will be patronesses of these programs. The talent and fuller programs will be given later.

SILAS FRY OF PINE CREEK DIED TODAY

OLD STOREKEEPER PASSED TO REST AT OLD PEOPLE'S HOME—FUNERAL TOMORROW.

Silas Fry, a former resident of Pine Creek township and known to many Dixon people, died at the Old People's Home at Mt. Morris at 3 o'clock this morning. The deceased, who formerly conducted a small store in Pine Creek and who made regular trips to this city, was 66 years of age, and as far as is known has no surviving relatives, his wife having passed away Nov. 4, 1910. The funeral will be held at Brethren church, Pine Creek, tomorrow afternoon, with burial at the Brethren cemetery.

DOCTORS BAIRD AND SICKELS RETURN

Doctors Baird and Sickels, the last of the Dixon deer hunters who spent several happy and beneficial weeks enjoying the pure water, pure air and good hunting in the northern Wisconsin woods, returned home on Saturday afternoon, and are trying to catch up with their work between periods of time spent in telling their friends how they made good. Each of the Dixon party came home with a deer.

AMBOY MEN GET OUT INJUNCTION

FILE PAPERS ASKING INJUNCTION AGAINST REMOVAL OF BINGHAMPTON BRIDGE.

SAY IT WOULD DO GREAT HARM

Would Enjoin Drainage Swamp Commissioners From Obstructing the Highway.

An injunction suit was filed in the circuit court this morning to prevent the removal of a bridge known as the Binghampton bridge on a road leading in a southeasterly direction out of Amboy, to Sublette.

The signers of the injunction States Attorney Harry Edwards, Gilbert M. Finch, Wm. P. Long, John I. Thompson, commissioners of highways and Samuel A. Long, a resident of the town, assert that Inlet Swamp Drainage Commissioners B. F. Johnson, Xavier Gehant and B. F. Lane, and the Northern Construction Co. of Elkhardt, Ind., which is doing the dredging work, propose to remove this bridge from its present position across Green river for the purpose of dredging and blasting out for the ditch and that the bridge is a fine steel structure with concrete floor, good for thirty years, and that it connects two parts of school district No. 69 and that the obstruction of this highway by removal of the bridge would be a great detriment to persons who daily use it, including school children, and to the merchants of Amboy, who profit by the trade of customers who use the bridge, etc., and that the drainage commissioners do not propose to install a temporary structure for the benefit of those who would cross the stream at this point, but intend to let them "go round."

LICENSED TO WED

Marriage licenses have been issued to Walter P. Scholes of Chicago and Miss Grace M. Pennefeather of Crawfordville, Ind., and to Harry W. Smith and Miss Amanda M. Bete, both of Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heibenthal and daughter of Ashton were here today.

WEATHER.

KNABE MURDER TRIAL TO BEGIN

DR. WM. B. CRAIG, DEAN OF INDIANA VETERINARY COLLEGE ON TRIAL

FOUND MURDERED IN ROOM

Police Gave Up Mystery, But Council of Women Caused Investigation Uncovering Murder

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 24.—Preparations are understood to be completed for the opening this week of the trial of Dr. William B. Craig, dean of the Indiana Veterinary College, who, together with Alonzo M. Ragsdale, an undertaker, also of Indianapolis, was indicted in December of last year by the Marion county grand jury for the murder of Dr. Helene Knabe, a well known physician and bacteriologist of Indianapolis, who was murdered on Oct. 23, 1911.

The case, which was originally to be tried in Marion county last month was transferred to Shelby county on a change of venue at the request of Dr. Craig, and will be heard before Judge Blair of the Shelby county court. A. M. Ragsdale, indicted jointly with Dr. Craig, did not join in the plea for a change of venue and his case will probably be tried in Indianapolis after the Craig trial is disposed of. Owing to the prominence of the victim and of the persons indicted for the murder and because of the mysterious circumstances of the case, the trial is attracting country-wide attention and promises to be the most notable case ever tried in this country.

Dr. Helene Knabe, the victim of the murder, was about 35 years old at the time of her death. She was born in Germany, the daughter of a civil engineer and had come to this country as a young girl to obtain a scientific education. She came to Indianapolis, studied medicine and established herself as a general practitioner. Having specialized in bacteriology, she became assistant in the bacteriological laboratory of the state health department gaining an excellent reputation for her careful and brilliant work. She had her office and living apartment on the ground floor of an apartment house in a quiet and prosperous part of Indianapolis, almost on the edge of the business part of the city and lived quietly, unostentatiously, devoting nearly all her spare time to her studies. She had many friends, and, so far as is known, no enemies and no one ever suspected her of having any love affair, although she was a strikingly handsome woman.

On the morning of October 24, 1911, Miss McPherson, Dr. Knabe's assistant, upon reaching her employer's apartment, found Dr. Knabe dead in her bedroom. Her throat had been severed, but, strange to say, there were no traces of blood upon the bed or the floor of the room and no instrument which might have been used in the murder, was found in the room. The body lay upon the bed and was naked except for the nightgown, which was rolled up under the arms. The police authorities were informed and after a careful investigation they came to the rather absurd opinion that Dr. Knabe had committed suicide.

The Indiana Council of Women, composed of some of the most prominent women in Indiana, dissatisfied with the conclusions which the police had reached, decided to make a more thorough investigation. They engaged H. C. Webster, a private detective, who collected the incriminating testimony which formed the basis for the indictment by the grand jury of Dr. Craig and Alonzo M. Ragsdale, an Indianapolis undertaker, who is charged with having been an accessory after the fact.

Webster, so it is stated, found that Dr. Knabe, who was a lecturer on pathology in the Indiana Veterinary College, of which Dr. Craig has been dean for a number of years, had been an intimate friend of Dr. Craig, who is a widower, a little more than forty years of age. Dr. Knabe was a frequent visitor at Dr. Craig's home and, as Webster is said to have ascertained, was anxious to

STORES HELP THE LINCOLN HIGHWAY

BIG DEPARTMENT STORES ADVERTISE THE PROJECT ALONG THE ROUTE

OCEAN TO OCEAN BOULEVARD

If Patriotic Citizens Come to the Front With Donations, Road Will Be Built.

Detroit, Nov. 21.—The Lincoln Highway association, organized to raise a fund of $10,000,000 to build an ocean-to-ocean road, has invaded the windows of the department stores to advertise the proposition. There have recently been displays in small cities and this week a 25-foot window was taken in the J. L. Hudson company store, the space being contributed to the Lincoln Highway association by the management.

The window decorations are varied. At one end is a view of New York and its skyscrapers while at the other is the Golden Gate. A road runs in between, peopled with automobiles, road making apparatus, supplies, etc. The official roadmaker of the association is displayed on signs along the way and both good and bad roads are shown.

In the center of the window is a magnificent bust of Lincoln. At the rear are maps of the route, framed copies of the proclamation announcing the same and American flags. The radiator emblems and paper weights, letters from President Wilson, Cardinal Gibbons and may men of national reputation, and several pictures of Lincoln, complete the decorations, the whole being surrounded by the four colored pennants adopted by the association.

In addition to the window space was also contributed at the main entrance and here applications for membership were received and pennants, maps, paper weights and proclamations, framed, were sold. It is understood that similar displays are to be made by many of the larger stores from New York to San Francisco to aid the cause.

STERLING GIRLS ARE MAKING ROAD RECORD

YOUNG LADIES ARE HIGH STEPPERS—WALK HERE IN THREE HOURS.

Two pretty Sterling school girls, Margaret Melvin and Nina Landos, left Sterling at 9:30 Saturday morning to walk to Dixon, emulating the example set by two old high school lassies some time ago, and determined to beat the old record if they could. Their success is shown in the statement that they walked the distance from the little village west of Dixon to this city in exactly three hours, their arrival at the corner of Galena avenue and First street being at exactly 12:30. The misses ate their lunch while walking and plodded along determinedly through the heavy shower which visited this section Saturday morning. That the young ladies walked all the time is vouched for by the crews of the interurban cars, who saw them on every trip, and by a number of farmers who offered the girls rides, which they refused.

WILL BOWL TONIGHT

The second game of the City League bowling schedule will be played this evening at John Vaile's alleys, the Peters and I. N. U. teams meeting. Both aggregations are composed of clever bowlers and an interesting contest may be expected to result.

GROCERY STORES

CLOSED THURSDAY

The grocery stores will remain open Wednesday evening after supper, but will be closed all day Thursday, Thanksgiving day, in order to permit the clerks to enjoy the holiday.

Dementtown Doings

Watch Depot Avenue Grow

Workmen commenced work on the remodeling of the Northwestern Saturday morning. Before Christmas the depot will be one of the finest on the Galena division.

Mr. Marshall of the I. N. U. Company went to Chicago Saturday afternoon.

William Penrose got the mail pouch on No. 10 Saturday. He is getting quite skillful in his line. But then the train was not running at its usual fast rate.

Galena and Amboy were represented at the Hotel Santone Saturday. Bradford Brinton went to Chicago Saturday morning.

Mayor Brinton returned from Chicago Friday evening.

Seibolt was in Sterling Saturday morning transacting business for the Dixon Candy Co.

Fred Cropsey was here Saturday, greeting old friends.

How an avenue young man made a date. It took him just three seconds. He grabbed the phone. "Give me 41144. This you? How about Sunday night?" "Yes, same time." Bang! went the receiver.

John Hogan is assisting William Lee, the drayman.

John Lynch has resigned as yard clerk for the Central. Ernest Bates has accepted the position.

Who wrote that letter?

Richard Lynch is assisting Mike Q'Neal at car repairing at the Central. Oscar Kelsey has gone to Madison to relieve "Dick" Green who will soon be home to visit relatives and friends.

Jack Lynch, Ed Reynolds, William Riley, Jack Mahan, Ernest Suggitt have accept positions with J. W. Kelley to put a new lustre on the cement sidewalks.

You need not be a Lincoln, Pat, stop being so modest and get busy.

And did you attend church Sunday? Don't forget the turkey shoot tomorrow near the avenue.

If you haven't anything for Thursday, try a rabbit.

Some of the young people are going to leave Dixon for Thanksgiving. Quite a few will go to Freeport to witness the football game.

The following story was heard at one of Casey's parties the other afternoon:

An old gentleman, now deceased, never seemed to be satisfied unless he had several cases pending in court. He left surviving a son who seems to have followed in his footsteps and has continued to keep up his father's record of proceedings in court.

Several of the attorneys were talking about his court troubles one day, when one of them told the following about the old gent.

The old gent had just won a case in the justice court when the loser, in a very combative frame of mind, exclaimed:

"I'll law you to the circuit court."

Old Gent—"I'll be thar."

Loser—"And I'll law you to the supreme court."

"I'll be thar."

"I'll law you to 'em."

"My attorney'll be thar."

KILLS 3 PURSUERS IN FIGHT

Mexican, Wanted for Slaying Countrymen, Shoots Officers.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 22.—Chief of Police Grant of Bingham and Deputy Sheriff Otto Whitbeck and Nephi Jensen were killed in a battle with Ralph Lopez, a Mexican, near Saratoga Springs, Utah. Lopez was wanted in Bingham for the murder of a countryman there.

After slaying the three officers Lopez fled into the hills where he is being searched for with the prospect of another fight if he is overtaken.

The murder for which Lopez was wanted was committed near the Highland Boy mine at Bingham when he shot and killed John Valdez.

REES TO MEDITERRANEAN

Accepts Commissioner Generalship for Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Thomas Rees, editor and owner of the Springfield (Ill.) Register, and former state senator, was appointed commissioner general to the countries bordering the Mediterranean, in behalf of the Panama exposition. Mr. Rees will also act as publicity director for the entire European commission.

About a month ago Mr. Rees was offered a similar assignment to South America, but declined because the party was going on a war vessel and Mrs. Rees could not accompany him. Mrs. Rees can go with him on his Mediterranean trip.

Fines Capital "Militant" $4.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Miss Lucy Burns, the capital's first militant suffragette, paid a fine of one dollar in police court for chalking the White House sidewalks with "Votes for Women."

14 Years for Bearing Pistol.
New York, Nov. 22.—For carrying a pistol a "gunman" was sentenced to 14 years in Sing Sing prison.

—Meringues are delicious. Order some for Thanksgiving dinner from Beier's.

SEEK COMMERCE JOBS

Wilson Will Fill Three Vacancies in Commission Soon.

Brandels May Take Place—Funeral of Commissioner John H. Marble Held on Sunday.

Washington, Nov. 24.—It is expected that President Wilson will send to congress early in the regular session the nominations of three members of the interstate commerce commission.

There are seven members of the commission, so that the action the president will take is certain to have a large influence upon the future policy of the commission, with respect to railroad rate increases.

The vacancies which exist have been caused by the expiration of the term of Judson C. Clements of Alabama, the retirement of Charles A. Prouty of Vermont, in order to assume charge of railroad valuation and the death of John H. Marble of California.

It is expected Mr. Clements will be reappointed. There are at least 150 applicants for the other vacancies. Among them are Milo Malby and Martin Decker of the New York public service commission, D. O. Ives of Boston, and Gov. R. D. Glenn of North Carolina.

The president favors the appointment of Louis D. Brandels of Boston and will name him if he will accept the post. It is not certain, however, Mr. Brandels will consent to come to Washington in this capacity.

The funeral of Mr. Marble was held Sunday. Members of the commission were the pallbearers.

President Wilson expressed regret at the sudden death of Mr. Marble and sent flowers and condolence.

MAY RAISE FREIGHT RATES

Hearing Before Commerce Body Begins Today.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The interstate commerce commission began a hearing today which probably will extend over several months on the proposed freight rate increases of approximately five per cent. filed October 15 last by railroads in the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers. Every railroad in the country is concerned in the hearing. Should the commission permit the roads applying to increase rates the same authority might be extended to other carriers to increase rates on all classes of freight.

WANAMAKER EXPLAINS ACT

Well-Known Merchant Calls on McReynolds.

Washington, Nov. 24.—John Wanamaker of Philadelphia appeared before Attorney General McReynolds at the department of justice to tell what he knows of the alleged failure of his Philadelphia store to pay the full duties on thousands of dollars' worth of goods imported during several years.

A previous case against the Wanamaker firm was settled in the closing days of the first administration by the payment of $100,000.

U. S. CASH TO STOP RUN

Banks and Treasury Aid Institution.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Huge motor trucks carried $1,000,000 in bills of small denomination from the treasury to the branches of the United States Trust company in expectation of further demands from depositors. This money was sent out by John Skelton Williams, assistant secretary of the treasury, who sat up all night examining securities offered by the national banks of the city. As the treasury can lend money only to national banks, these institutions applied for the funds and turned them over to the trust company. The delivery, however, was direct.

KNABE MURDER CASE NEAR

Doctor Craig Charged With Slaying Indianapolis Woman.

Indianapolis, Nov. 24.—Dr. William B. Craig, president of the Indiana Veterinary college, will be placed on trial at Shelbyville next Friday, charged with the murder of Dr. Helen Knabe, one of the most prominent women in Indiana, who was found dead in her apartment with a deep wound in her throat, October 24, 1911.

DEBATE ON BILL NEXT WEEK

Senate Committee to Discuss Currency on Monday.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Active debate on the currency committee bill will begin in the senate Monday when Chairman Owen will make the opening speech in support of the administration bill. The senate will meet Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for currency discussion; adjourn over Thanksgiving day and on Friday probably will adjourn to Monday morning at 11 o'clock. At noon the special session will close and the regular session will begin.

Congress probably will take the usual holiday recess of two weeks from December 20 to January 5, in view of the president's announcement that he would rest during the holidays.

LEGUMES AND GRAIN CROPS.

FRANK L. MANN SAYS FARMERS SHOULD UNDERSTAND FUNDAMENTAL DIFFERENCE

In talking to a farmers' institute meeting recently F. L. Mann, a successful farmer of Iroquois county, said:

"The prominent and everlasting problem of maintaining high production is to keep enough nitrogen in the soil out of which to make crops, and because of this the clover or leguminous crops are the fundamental basis of a high production. This means that these crops are the important ones in a rotation, and the valuable feature of the legume crops is the ability to secure nitrogen out of the air.

When we study the chemistry of the legume crop we find the bacteria which gathers the nitrogen through the plant requires in addition, only the mineral elements, carbonates and phosphates. If any crop can occupy land on the 'European Plan'—i. e., to get its own food if you give it lodging, it is the legume crop. All it requires is that it be fed plenty of calcium and phosphate.

The Complete System.

We must understand these fundamental differences between the legume and the grain crops. If we feed the legume crops the mineral and feed the results to the grain crops we have the system complete. It is absolutely necessary to do this, because the bacteria which prepares the food for the grain crops must have vegetable matter on which to thrive. The bacteria which gathers the nitrogen from the air do not require the assistance of organic matter. You have seen the wild sweet clover crop grow luxuriantly on a railroad ballast or a pile of cinders; it gets its own food. If you give the legumes a place to stand where the minerals are abundant they will feed themselves. They do not have to have the same moisture supply that grain crops do because the nitrogen feeding bacteria will thrive with a lower moisture content than will those which feed the grain crops. When we turn under the legume crops to feed the grain crops we have the system which brings high production.

Alfalfa and Soy Beans.

The soy bean is the best substitute for clover that I know of but clover is the best legume crop that grows in an ordinary rotation. Alfalfa beats it only under a five-field, four year rotation of wheat, corn, oats and clover grown upon four fields for five years while the fifth field is kept in alfalfa. The clover should be seeded on the wheat for plowing under the next year before planting corn. At the end of the fifth year the alfalfa field is brought into the rotation and one of the four fields seeded to alfalfa for another five-year period.

The problem with growing soy beans is weeds. With plenty of carbonates and phosphates, most any well drained land will produce a crop of soy beans that will smother weeds, if it has a chance, but on ordinary land this crop does not grow sufficiently strong to smother the weeds. On this kind of land the soy beans should be planted thin, so as to be cultivated—sow them through every third opening in the drill—21 inch rows; this will permit cultivation. But on ground that is not foul and is well drained so it can be prepared well, with all weeds destroyed before the first week in June, the time to plant, we can plant them as the ordinary drill will sow them—through every opening. This permits of no cultivation except such as we can do with the weeder or harrow.

Mr. Mann hopes soon to have figures showing the result of following soy beans with grain crops as compared with grain crops following clover in the same field and under like conditions.—H. A. McKeene, Secretary, Illinois Farmers' Institute.

Cold-Storage Tests.

Tests of cold storage, as made by one of the experts of the department of agriculture led to the conclusion that poultry keeps better when not drawn than it does when drawn. The reason is that the process of drawing causes bruises which invite the lodgment of germs. Birds that were dry picked kept much better than those which had been scalded. The experts summed up the requirements as prompt storage, dry picking and dry chilling. These essentials have all been favorable to the cold-storage trade, but seem never to be comprehended by the host of agitators which every year try to secure absurd cold-storage laws.

PASSION OF HIS LIFE

By WALTER JOSEPH DELANEY.

The great audience hall was crowded to suffocation, the stage was a brilliant glow of color and life. A beautiful young girl had just enraptured her listeners with a violin solo that seemed to sweep the responsive strings of every heart.

It was the annual graduation day of a leading conservatory of music. As the solo closed, the thunders of applause told that the fair violinist, Miss Orthello Blain, had won the honors of the day.

She resembled some timid fairy creature, all ethereal softness and grace, as she bowed to the appreciative audience. There was humid joyousness in her radiant eyes. Then there came one gratified flash of pride as she glanced at a corner of the room where a man, tall, spare, intellectual looking, sat beside a woman, his sister. They were Adrian and Mary Worth.

"Oh, brother!" quavered the woman, her face a thrill of rare delight—"it was rapturous."

"She has outdone every expectation," murmured Adrian Worth, and his tones were husky with emotion. "A blessed moment—after all the years!" whispered his sister.

Two manly young fellows hovered about the flushed, excited beauty as she came down among the audience. A pang shot through the sensitive heart of Adrian Worth at the sight of them. His fine statures face quivered with a strange pain at heart he did not seek to analyze. Then it gladdened, for Orthello had eyes only for him. She came to his side. She clasped his cold, trembling hand.

"Dear Guardy," she breathed eagerly, her utterance rare incense to his famished soul, "did it please you?" "Oh, my child, my gifted, glorious Orthello!" he cried, and could speak no further.

The glamour and excitement of congratulations remained far into the evening. Orthello dwelt in an atmosphere of rare pleasure.

She Resembled Some Timid Fairy Creature.

Mary Worth had opened her house to the young friends of her petted ward.

Adrian Worth did not appear in the festivities. While the function was at its climax he was seated in his study, lost in reverie.

The shadows as well as the sunshine in the life of beautiful Orthello drifted through his mind, forming a strange composite picture.

Eighteen years previous, when he was a youth of fifteen, he had found one stormy wintry night on the door step of the house of which his elder sister, Mary, was the mistress, a basket containing a tiny little child.

A note gave to the abandoned child the quaint name Orthello. It enclosed a wedding ring bearing initials and a few words to the effect that the mother, widowed, homeless, prayed for tender care for the little one while she went to the hospital to die.

Kind-hearted Mr. Worth had heeded the pleadings of Adrian to adopt the tiny waif. Orthello had become the passion of his life. As she grew in brightness and beauty his whole thoughts became centered upon her. Her joyful childhood had been irradiated by his self sacrifice and indulgence.

When he became a college professor, the aim of his life was to provide for her education. Music seemed born within her. That day she had won the high laurels made possible by his devotion to her interests.

The door opened and the shaded lamp cast a flitting reflection across the floor. Orthello was at his side, radiant and blooming in her pretty graduation dress. She seated herself on the arm of his chair and rested a fond arm upon his shoulder.

"Guardy, dear," she said with a little pout, "why have you deserted us all the evening?"

"I have had books to look over," he said stumbingly. "Besides," with a short laugh, "an old fellow like me is somewhat out of place among your bright galaxy of youth and beauty."

"Oh, if anybody else said that—and Orthello tried to look fierce and dangerous and kissed his cheek till he thrilled—and ran away, a veritable sprite of fleetness and grace.

"This cannot continue," spoke Adrian, seriously. "I must not mar her life—I need not make my own wretched. I must go away."

For two days Orthello was inconsolable, and Miss Worth wretched, when her brother informed them that he was thinking of accepting a more lucrative professorship abroad.

"And, oh, Guardy!" sobbed Orthello, "to think of your going away just as I am ready to take a good position myself to pay you back for all the care and happiness of so many years! And the love, too! and she clung to him till he trembled with vivid emotions.

And then, a heavier blow, the crisis—the end of all his hopes and ambitions, it seemed.

One morning a fashionable turnout halted in front of the Worth cottage. An elderly elegantly attired lady alighted. She had seen the name of the fair graduate in the newspaper. "Orthello," an odd name—it was her own. Her sister—

Then the story came out; a sister, driven from home by an angered father for marrying a poor man. They had heard of his death, but of his widow never a trace.

And now the name "Orthello," had revived hope. Dates, the wedding ring, the mother's features reproduced in her child—oh, at last, at last—reparation! She was wealthy, she must take her niece to her own home.

And Orthello went, and gloom and sadness enveloped the rose embowered cottage.

At the end of a week Orthello wrote them—grieving for them truly, but fascinated with the glare and glitter of her new life.

Then a gloomy letter, then a pleading one asking them to come to see her. And then, one evening as Miss Worth was quietly knitting in the long sitting room a familiar step echoed on the porch, and Orthello burst in upon her.

She was pale, wearied. She threw herself into the arms of the dear soul, a true mother to her. Her words were:

"And, Guardy? Oh, do not tell me he has gone away!"

"No, dear," answered Miss Worth. "He is not going at all. He—he has changed his mind."

She did not tell Orthello why, for the sister suspected the truth—that Adrian had intended to go away because of his love for the charming girl.

"You—you—you!" cried Adrian, hearing her voice and coming into the room. She flew to his arms, laughing, crying, resting there like a wandering bird returned to its home nest.

"Yes, I have come back. I have run away back. And I mean to stay!" declared Orthello.

"But—your aunt, the new home, so splendid, the prospects, wealth, society—" voiced Adrian incoherently. "You are a young lady now, Orthello. You must look to your future. An old fogey like me—"

She seized his hand, she swayed before him, looking him straight in the eyes.

"Oh, must a poor, tired little girl tell you everything?" she cried. "Don't you understand? Must I say it, that I love you, always loved you better than anybody else in the world? Oh, take me, keep me, let me work for you, slave for you, only—love me, love me, or my heart will break!"

And at last Adrian Worth understood, and heaven seemed to open for him in a glorified vision of rapturous delight.

NO SAKE, YET MUCH MOISTURE

Incident of Summer's Drought in Japan Which the Priests Have Not Yet Explained.

How love and religion collided during this summer's drought in Japan is told in a Tokyo publication, the Far East: "In Hooiki province there is a large pond which is regarded as one of the most famous places in Japan at which to pray for rain. The supplicants are obliged to arm themselves with sake casks which they must bring from their homes, and the casks must be offered to Daisenji, the temple near the pond. Of course the priests do not object at all to this custom, but rather welcome the drought, since they always take half of the sake and pour the remainder into the pond as libation to the rain god. Then the villagers refill their casks with water from the pond and return home. But they must be particularly careful that they do not rest by the wayside; for to allow the cask to touch the ground would be a catastrophe, since the rain would fall in that spot alone. When they return to their villages they share the contents of the casks with their neighbors, who pour the water from the pond over their rice fields.

"But after one of these pilgrimages recently the rain gods withheld the gentle dew from heaven and the villagers searching for a reason vented their resentment against a young man and woman who had formed part of the party. They were lovers and the gods were supposed to be outraged by their presence, so they were banished from the village for a time. The girl, however, never forgot the insult and planned a revenge.

"She emptied the sake from the casks and filled them with water. The villagers repaired as was their custom to pray for rain. This time the priests were minus their usual cause for rejoicing, and, strange to say, the rain god was generous and soon afterward granted rain to a grateful earth."

MUCH COMFORT FOR POULTRY.

Hens Sing and Cackle in Cozy Winter House When Kept Busy Scratching for Their Feed.

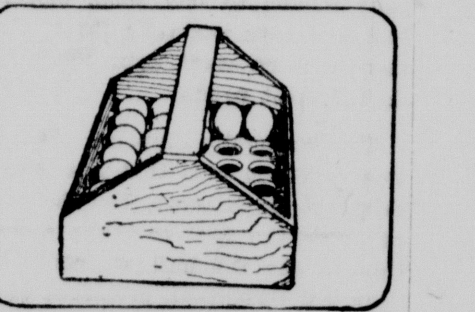

In our winter poultry house on cold, snowy days our hens sing and cackle as if they were enjoying summer weather. The house is 14x56 feet, with large windows on the southern exposure. Its equipment consists of clean, inviting nest boxes, self-feeders, with fruit and shells, the ground floor banked deeply with leaves and straw, writes George W. Brown of Hancock county, Ohio, in the New England Homestead. We keep the hens busy from daylight until perch time digging after small grain scattered several times daily in the litter. Lawn clippings, meat offal, beets, pumpkins, cabbage and an occasional sheaf of wheat, oats or clover hay suspended from the roof gives them business.

It is the busy hen that lays the eggs. She hustles and has red blood coursing in her veins to keep her warm on cold days. Our perches can be hooked to the roof, and if we have any drones in the flock inclined to spend much of the day on the perch, we just hook the perches to the ceiling. They soon get the habit of hustling with the rest of the flock. We have no use for drones on our farm save in our aplary.

Basket Social.

A very pleasant basket social was held at the Brierton school Friday evening, which netted a good sum for the school fund. A number of Dixon people attended. Miss Anna Hennessy is the teacher.

To Minimize Accidents.

An interesting method of educating the public in the prevention of street accidents, which possesses possibilities in other directions, employed by the Boston Elevated Railway company, is commented on in a recent number of the Journal of the American Medical association. The railway company offered a large number of prizes to high school pupils for the best specimens of verses containing instruction and caution in the way of prevention of traffic accidents on the streets which would appeal particularly to children. The plan created great interest among the school children, and a large number of answers were received. The company awarded about 200 prizes, the largest being for $50.

Keystone Materials Firm Fails.

New York City, Nov. 22.—The Keystone Materials company failed in the United States district court, with liabilities of $150,000. The assets are $55,000. William Guggenheim, whose wife instituted sensational divorce proceedings in Chicago, is president of the Keystone Materials company.

Francis B. Sayre, Bridegroom.
Miss Eleanor Wilson.

FROM the time of the announcement of the engagement of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second of the president's three daughters, and Francis B. Sayre the entire country took the liveliest interest in the arrangements for the wedding, and as the day, Nov. 25, approached the interest increased apace. With the return of Mrs. Wilson and her daughters to Washington about the middle of October the White House took on an air of added activity, and the details of the wedding were so varied and numerous that Mrs. Wilson was obliged to call in another social secretary.

While Miss Wilson was the thirteenth bride going forth from the White House, her marriage was only the fifth in which the bride was a president's daughter. It was announced that the company witnessing the wedding would not be as large as that assembled at the marriage of Miss Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth, for the president and his wife desired to limit an official company to about 400 guests.

Selecting the Guests.

At a visit made by Miss Isabelle Hagner, Mrs. Wilson's social secretary, to the summer White House at Cornish, N. H., there was made what was believed to be a final revision of the official guests and personal friends to whom invitations were to be sent. Following this final revision, however, there were additions and subtractions made from time to time, but the list always was carefully guarded. It was a delicate matter, this selection of the guests, and Washington society particularly awaited the names of the highly favored ones.

The plans called for the wedding to be held at 4:30 p. m. on Tuesday, Nov. 25. The Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, the president's pastor at Princeton, N. J., was selected to perform the ceremony.

The Official Details.

When the official details of the wedding were announced it was seen that the bride would be attended by her elder sister, Margaret, as maid of honor and her younger sister, Eleanor; Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, Miss A. Goucher, a college friend of the bride; Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott, daughter of Professor William B. Scott of Princeton, and Miss Marjorie Brown, daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Colonel E. T. Brown of Atlanta, Ga., as bridesmaids.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, with whom Mr. Sayre worked in Labrador, was selected as the best man, and the ushers were named as follows: Benjamin B. Burton of New York, a graduate of Williams college, 1912; Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass., whom Mr.

Sayre knew in Labrador and with whom he trailed northern Newfoundland; Dr. Gilbert H. Horax of Montclair, N. J., classmate of the bridegroom at Williams, class of 1909, now at Johns Hopkins medical school, and Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court, who was a classmate of Mr. Sayre at Harvard law school.

Elegance and Simplicity.

Invitations to the wedding were in a style of simple elegance, engraved on ivory tinted heavy paper, double fold, about 9 by 10 inches, with the United States coat of arms embossed heavily in white at the top. They read in modest script:

"The President and Mrs. Wilson request the pleasure of the presence of — (blank line for the name of guest) — at the wedding of their daughter, Miss Jessie Woodrow, to Mr. Francis Bowes Sayre, on Tuesday, November the Twenty-fifth, Nineteen Hundred and Thirteen, at half after 4 o'clock at the White House, Washington, D. C."

Handsome Wedding Gown.

The wedding gown was made in New York and was of soft ivory tinted satin with much rare old lace. The lingerie portions of the trousseau were all handmade and of the daintiest and most delicate construction and materials. It had been planned that simplicity was to be the keynote of the whole affair and that while the wedding company was to be large it was to be more personal than official.

Naturally every one was interested in the young man who had won the hand of the daughter of the president. Francis Bowes Sayre, son of the old and wealthy Sayre family of eastern Pennsylvania, which built and partly owns the Lehigh Valley railroad, is a graduate of Williams college and of the Harvard law school. For the past year Mr. Sayre has been connected with the office of District Attorney Charles S. Whitman in New York. Mr. Sayre's mother, daughter of John Williamson Newby, president of Franklin and Marshall college, Lancaster, Pa., is a descendant of Hugh Williamson of North Carolina, one of the framers of the United States constitution. One of her sons is now a minister in China. Mr. Sayre is also interested in social settlement work.

Something About the Bride.

Miss Jessie Wilson was born at Gainesville, Ga. Her early education was at home under a German governess. After finishing her studies at the Baltimore Woman's college she went into settlement work. She is the youngest member of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association, and she composed a number of the prayers read at the Y. M. C. A. convention at Richmond, Va.

Like her mother, she is a blond, with a Greek profile, a delicate rose pink complexion and large blue eyes. She plays tennis, rides horseback, swims and dances.

As this was to be a chrysanthemum wedding, it had been arranged to have great quantities of this flower adorn the White House. The predominating color was mauve, the bride's favorite color, and there is no color which contrasts and harmonizes more perfectly with the newly decorated White House.

The Honeymoon Plans.

Tentative plans for the honeymoon included a visit to Windsor Forges, near Churchtown, Pa., the home of Miss Nevins, the bridegroom's aunt, where Miss Wilson and Mr. Sayre were visiting when they first met. Mr. Sayre will take his bride to Williams-town, Mass., where their home, leased from Professor William E. McElfresh, at 40 Grace street, has been put in readiness for them.

Washington society folk were intensely interested in the trousseau, and when it arrived at the White House from New York, Baltimore and Washington it was seen that the predominating color was violet.

In addition to arranging the details of the wedding Miss Wilson was busy directing the furnishing and decoration of her future home in Williamstown, where they will live after January, when Mr. Sayre will sever his connection with the office of District Attorney Whitman in New York and take up his new duties as assistant to President Harry A. Garfield of Williams college.

Slight Hitch Over Present.

The house of representatives declared its intention of giving Miss Wilson a handsome present on the occasion of her wedding. Representative Edward W. Townsend of Montclair, N. J., a member of the committee chosen to select the gift, said:

"We received from members of the house about $2,000 in contributions to Miss Wilson's wedding gift fund. It was the purpose of the committee to select a present which would be of practical use to the bride all her life. All the committeemen are married, and that settled the matter. We thought the young bride would be better pleased with a silver table set than gems or anything else."

Incidentally this proposal of members contributing to a present caused a little unpleasantness in the house of representatives. Representative Finley H. Gray of Indiana criticised his legislative associates in a speech for "chipping in" for a wedding gift. President Wilson himself, it is said, had intimated his disapproval of the movement, which had been started by Republican Floor Leader Mann. Nevertheless practically all the congressmen gladly subscribed their $5 each toward the total of about $2,000.

Little Money and No Satisfaction in Practice—Best to Sell Direct to the Consumer.

There is no satisfaction, and but very little money in exchanging eggs for groceries or grain. By being careful in gathering eggs, so that they won't become chilled in winter and so the hens won't sit on them overnight and using a little care in sizing and selecting, quite an advance over the common prices may be obtained. When possible, sell your eggs direct to the consumer. If not possible, get a market in your nearest city with some grocer who deals in strictly fancy groceries and provisions. Agree to furnish him only strictly fresh eggs, and then, for your own sake, live up to your agreement. Carefully clean all the eggs; don't send any small, misshapen or large ones. Stamp each egg with a rubber stamp, using your initials or the name of your farm, and in a short time you will have created a demand for your eggs, and when you have created such a demand your eggs will bring the highest prices, considerably more than your storekeeper would pay.

Several neighbors could send their eggs together, paying a cent or two per dozen to one of their number for doing the business, and in this way all would gain a little.

Dramatic Notes

PRINCESS THEATRE.

A Highland Romance, in two reels, will be the special feature at the popular Princess theatre tonight. This is a romance filled with the atmosphere of Bonnie Scotland, a fascinating story brimming with life and action. Also on Wednesday and Friday night. Two other excellent features will be shown.

FAMILY THEATRE

The Family theatre will have pictures only the first half of the week and will show the following tonight: Never Again, a comedy; Two Hearts and a Thief, comedy; Beauty and the Ugly One, an Indian picture. The Family is cozy and well ventilated and is always popular.

DAIRY

SANITARY MILK PAILS BEST

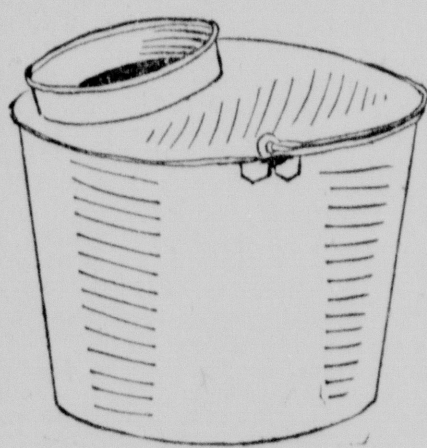

Shape and Construction of Receptacle Is of Vital Importance in All Dairy Work.

(By HERBERT A. HOPPER)
 Nothing will contribute so much to the cause of better and cleaner milk as will the sanitary milk pail. The critical period in the life of milk is during the time of milking. Few who have not made careful tests, realize to what extent the wide-open pail invites dirt as compared with one wholly or partly covered.

There should be greater interest in covered pails and dairy operators should have them used for the good it will do their business, even if they have not the consumers' interest at heart. Realizing that the dust particles are the carriers of infection in milk, the advantages of excluding dust are obvious.

Battered or dented pails, with seams that are not flushed with solder, cannot be readily cleaned by reasonable care in washing. Such uneven surfaces invite contamination that is readily imparted to the milk, though the latter is subjected to it only momentarily. Such utensils are employed at a loss. New pails may cause an immediate improvement in the product. Rusty pails are not only unsanitary, but the raw iron is shown to be slightly dissolved so that in such milk the action of rennet is hindered. An essential requirement in any utensil for handling milk is simplicity, to which should be added durability.

The use of the covered pail is of great advantage in any stable in excluding dirt and bacteria from the milk. The relative advantage gained by the use of the cover depends upon the sanitary conditions of the stable.

When a strainer of any kind is used and it holds the dirt to be driven through later, it is of no advantage and may increase the given content. The merits of the covered and small mouthed pail should appeal to every milk producer.

There are several styles of pails that are efficient in excluding the dust and falling dirt, but some are rather too complicated for general use. The more simple the construction of the pail the better.

Pails of the Stadtmueller and Newburgh type, and of the Trueman, Storrs and Loy type are satisfactory both in the case of milking and in the exclusion of one-half or more of the germs which fall into an ordinary open pail during the milking process.

Butter in Cream.

A gallon of cream testing 25 per cent, should make a little over two pounds of butter.

Cleanliness Is Profitable.

Cleanliness in the poultry pen puts many dollars into the pockets of the poultryman.

GENERAL BLANQUET, RIGHT-HAND MAN OF HUERTA.

If President Huerta of Mexico falls General Blanquet, who was in charge of the troops who invaded the National Palace in the bloody days which led to the end of President Madero, may succeed him. This is a photograph of Blanquet in the field with his troops. He has taken a seat on a log for the moment to figure out a military maneuver.

Blanquet is believed to be as desperate as Huerta, though he may lack the cunning and calmness of the president. He is a rough and ready soldier, who believes—as do many Americans who have been investigated—that the only way to govern Mexico is with the mailed fist. The methods of Porfirio Diaz, according to him, are to be employed in the same way.

WILL ADVERTISE FOR BIDS ON PAVEMENT

HIGHLAND AVE., COMMERCIAL ALLEY AND POSTOFFICE ALLEY ARE INCLUDED.

HOUSE OF GORDIANCE PASSED

Commissioners Pass Ordinance That Makes It Necessary to Get Their Permission to Move a Building.

The city council, at a joint meeting with the board of local improvements this morning, voted to advertise for bids on the concrete waterway and brick pavement in Highland avenue and Commercial alley, and the concrete pavement in the alley back of the postoffice, to extend from Second to Third streets. The first of these improvements was the one recently opposed by Mayor Brinton, and he voted against the motion to advertise for bids on the work, but the motion carried. Commissioners Schmidt, Gannon and Schuler voting in favor of the project. Commissioner Van Bibber was not present to vote on the motion. The proposition to advertise the alley pavement passed unanimously.

The council passed a resolution transferring from the different improvement funds to the contingent fund the costs of estimates, advertising, court costs, etc., which have been incurred in the various local improvement projects, which expenses have been paid from the contingent fund. The following amounts were ordered transferred:

No. 128	$21.09
No. 131	7.69
No. 135	17.43
No. 133	14.38
No. 136	183.16
No. 148	12.60
No. 144	260.16
No. 145	203.51
No. 142	663.89
Total	$1,384.18

Passed Ordinance.

An ordinance was passed providing that hereafter any person desiring to move a house, barn or any other kind of building through the streets of the city must first, in addition to obtaining permission from the city clerk and filing a bond with him, secure from the council a permit granted by resolution by that body. This ordinance was deemed necessary in order that the commissioners may know over what streets the removal is to take place and also the kind of building to be moved and its destination.

Miss Kreitzer Appointed.

Miss Bessie Kreitzer was this morning appointed city stenographer to succeed Mrs. Fred Hoberg, the council concurring in the appointment, and a petition from the residents of East Third street between Crawford and Dement avenues, asking that a water main be installed in that street, was referred to Mayor Brinton for his investigation.

MRS. CHARLES RICE OF REYNOLDS DIES

BELOVED LADY LIVING SOUTH OF ASHTON PASSES AWAY.

Mrs. Charles Rice died last evening at her home southeast of Ashton in Reynolds township. She has been ill several weeks and gradually becoming worse, finally succumbed to the insidious disease, diabetes. She was aged about 65 years.

Mrs. Rice was born in Germany and came to this country when but a girl, her maiden name being Elizabeth Mealhouse. She was married to Charles Rice and they have since resided near Ashton. Her husband preceded her in death five years. She leaves to mourn her passing a daughter, Lena Rice. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. August Klingebiel, of Ashton, and a brother, E. Mealhouse of Dakota.

The funeral will be held in Ashton, but the time has not been set, with services from the United Evangelical church and burial in Ashton cemetery.

Mrs. Rice was a woman whose demise leaves in sorrow many warm friends who grieve with the relatives the departure from this earth of a kind, motherly, charitable woman, whose ministering hand has eased the lot of many an invalid and who was ever an aid to those in distress.

MISS GIRTON RESIGNS POSITION

Miss Cordelia Girtton of Franklin Grove, who has been a valued employee of the telephone company at that place for the past seven years, resigned her position and left yesterday afternoon for Iowa where she will visit friends. Her plans for the future are uncertain. The telephone company presented the young lady with a substantial remembrance in recognition of her faithful work. Miss Girtton does not expect to return to Franklin Grove, which is regretted by her many friends there.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

Good attendance and manifest interest marked the boys' and men's meeting held at the Y. H. C. A. on Sunday afternoon. Prof. C. D. Anderson gave the boys a very beneficial address, while C. C. Carpenter's talk on "The Crowning Glory of Manhood," delivered to the men, was greatly enjoyed.

IS GREAT PLAY.

"The Blindness of Virtue" is a play which deserved a packed house and played to a fair sized house last night. The actors and actresses were superb in their several parts, and indeed an actor of common metal could not play the difficult roles in the play. The phase all star cast, is indeed correct. The production gave entire satisfaction and carried a great lesson.

Ezra King of Lee Center was in town today.

Supervisor C. Gross of China was here today.

Washington, D. C., U. S. A., Nov. 24, 1913

Mrs. Turkey Gobbler, Dixon, Ill.

Dear Madam:

I am creditably informed that your Husband is somewhat excited over the coming Thanksgiving Holiday and would suggest that you pay especial attention to him, lest he lose his head entirely. In these modern times Affinities are usurping the Affections of Husbands all over the U. S., and knowing Mr. Gobbler's weakness for society, I hasten to warn you of the impending danger. I will admit that Mr. Gobbler is a fine looking fellow and I hope some day to see his picture on the American Silver Dollar, and if some nice looking Lady should Ax him out to Thanksgiving Dinner will you personally attend to his dressing, he certainly will make a splendid appearance occupying a prominent position at a "HASTINGS DINING TABLE" and when all the Guests are comfortably seated in those lovely Leather Bottom Dining Chairs that KEYES AHRENS OGDENS Co. are selling, everyone is sure to be happy. I make special mention of the HASTINGS TABLE because it is the only Table I know of that is equipped with Steel Slides. They also have the Tyden Lock, that permits you to put in One, Two or Three Boards and securely Lock them in the Table Top, but the Crownit feature of the "HASTINGS" is in the Removable Top. This top comes off in Two Sections, and any lady can easily take her Hastings out of the room, really, Mrs. Gobbler there is no other Dining Table equal to the Hastings.

Of course, there are the nicest Buffet, China Cabinets and Serving Tables you have ever seen, at that store, and they are real reasonable in price too, honestly they are showing so many nice things for the home to make one thankful for, that every day in the year can be made a Thanksgiving day. Just speak to Mr. Gobbler about these things and I am sure he will strut right down town and buy all the handsome Housefurnishings you need at KEYES AHRENS OGDEN CO. STORE.

Affectionately yours,

MRS. CAREFUL SHOPPER

If Provisional President Huerta could have his way, he might turn over the reins of government in Mexico to General Blanquet, though there have been rumors recently that the two men are not so friendly as formerly.

HARVARD IS VICTOR

Brickley Kicks Crimson to Victory in Yale Game.

Immense Crowd That Attended Contest Believed to Be Largest in History.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 24.—Harvard crushed Yale in the annual football game on the Stadium gridiron here by a score of 15 to 5. All of Harvard's points were due to the superb kicking of Brickley. He sent the oval flying above the crossbar on five separate occasions, four goals being the result of drop kicks and one being driven across from placement.

Yale's points resulted from a successful drop kick from the 28-yard line by Guernsey in the second period and a safety touchdown by O'Brien, Harvard's right end, in the first period, the latter play being of an ivory nature which hardly will be forgotten by the present generation of football fans.

O'Brien picked up a ball that had been kicked against one of the goal posts and had bounded back into the gridiron, and before anyone could get O'Brien's thinking apparatus in proper working order he had trotted over the goal line, where he placed the ball down amid wild shouts of laughter from thousands of Yale men, who could not believe their eyes.

But Brickley's magnificent kicking put Yale out of it—so much so that the New Haven crowd filling out of the Stadium when the combat was over found consolation in the belief that without Brickley Harvard would have tasted defeat.

Harvard played a well balanced game in both offense and defense, in which the best and most conservative parts of the new and old football were successfully combined. Opposed to this was a Yale game that would undoubtedly have won under the "five yards in three downs" days, but was absolutely untaught to win against the Harvard eleven of 1912.

14 FOOTBALL PLAYERS SLAIN

Casualty List for 1913 Exceeds That of Last Year.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Fourteen dead, a host hurt—that is the gridiron's toll for 1913. Of the many injured 56 have been incapacitated, temporarily at least. The rest, too numerous to keep track of, have suffered from bruises, wrenches, or cuts which have not been sufficiently serious to cause them to leave the field.

The football casualty list for this season materially exceeds that of 1912, and almost equals that of 1911. In 1912 seven players lost their lives through devotion to the game.

GOMPERS HEADS A. F. OF L.

John Mitchell Refuses to Accept the Vice-Presidency.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24.—Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor at the closing session. At the same session John Mitchell retired as fifth vice-president and the executive council was instructed to draw up resolutions of regret. The delegates cheered Mitchell.

Young Farmer Hangs Himself.
Danville, Ill., Nov. 24.—Newton Oder, twenty years old, prominent farmer, while despondent because friends would not furnish bail, committed suicide in the county jail. He had been arrested a week ago charged with theft of a overcoat. He left a note declaring his innocence.

DECISIVE BATTLE TO OCCUR TODAY

General Villa Will Lead Rebels Against Federals Near Juarez.

DICTATOR SEES BULL FIGHT

Huerta's Treasury Lacks Funds—Women Used by Troops to Protect Them on Trains Near Capital.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 24.—Gen. Francisco Villa departs from Juarez today on a special train to join his troops, which are below Tierra Blanca, 26 miles south of Juarez, and will, on arrival, give the order for the march against the federals under Generals Salazar, Caravaio, Rojas and Landa, who are at Samalayuca, six miles south of the rebel positions. The rebel commander expects the battle between his troops and the federals will begin soon after his arrival.

His force of 1,500 men held in Juarez was increased during the day by 500 from Ojinaga, Chihuahua, while Villa declared he had about 5,000 men drawn up in line of battle at points between 12 and 13 miles south of Juarez. The main portions of this force were at points provided with railroad service.

Rebels on Defensive.
This force had been so placed that it could resist a federal advance from the south and was brought into position. Its purpose was chiefly defensive. Villa left this battle line and returned to Juarez, where he changed his plans when he became convinced that the federals would not attack him. He then decided upon an advance.

From federal deserters Villa said he had learned that there were only 2,000 men left in Chihuahua City, and it is considered probable that a rebel force under General Urbina will move against that city, the defensive forces of which have been weakened in the federal attempts, first to hold Juarez and next to retake it from the rebels.

"If the federals do not run from their present position," said Villa, "I will probably begin the battle today. If they do run my troops will chase them back to Chihuahua."

Resigned to Situation.
Mexico City, Nov. 24.—Resigned apparently to those conditions which make it necessary to carry on a dilatory campaign against his enemies, President Huerta and his official dependents appear serene, convinced that the United States will not take more drastic measures toward the Mexican government than those already taken.

Treasury Is Empty.
The financial situation is the most serious that Huerta is facing. The fact that the national treasury is practically empty is clearly shown by the measures recently adopted to obtain funds.

Use Women as Shield.
The families of Mariano Sandoval and Santos Coy, well known rebels, are being conveyed as passengers up and down the line continually. This is known to the rebels, and the government authorities assume that as long as the women and children of the rebel chiefs would be the victims in any attack their work trains will not be molested.

How large General Huerta's army is at present is not known, but the last official report placed the number at 80,000.

The army levy has caused something like a panic among men and women of the lower classes, since even women are being forced into service as "soldaderas."

Germans Plan Defense.
Conditions in the capital of Morelos are quiet, but the city is none too well garrisoned and the drain made on the local arsenal by the commanders in the field has greatly depleted the military stores.

From the Austrian legation there was sent out to all Austrians a circular letter urging them to co-operate with the German and other European colonies in organizing for defense. Accompanying the circular was another, issued by the Germans, detailing the plan of organization. Men who served in the German army have been given commands and will direct affairs. The Germans have a fair supply of rifles and ammunition and two machine guns.

The Americans have made no systematic attempt to protect themselves. General Huerta attended a bull fight in the capital on Sunday.

Dance Until Daylight.
Magdalena, Sonora, Mexico, Nov. 24.—Daylight was shining on the tiled roofs of Magdalena before the Sonora State band finished its last number at the ball given by Gen. Venustiano Carranza and his officers to the people of this tiny town.

KNABE MURDER TRIAL TO BEGIN

become the wife of Craig. The latter who has several children from his first marriage, is said to have been opposed to this plan and it is believed that Dr. Knabe visited the house of Dr. Craig under some pretext on the evening before the murder, to persuade Dr. Craig to marry her.

The exact nature of the evidence collected by Detective Webster has never been divulged, but was evidently sufficiently convincing to induce the grand jury to find an indictment against Dr. Craig and Alonzo M. Ragsdale. The arrest of the two men, who were both socially quite prominent, caused a tremendous sensation in Indianapolis at the time. Both men were arraigned for a preliminary hearing and released under heavy bail. It is understood that since the finding of the indictment the State has found some additional evidence of important bearing upon the case and it is believed that the trial will bring some extremely startling and sensational disclosures.

Rules for Poultrymen.

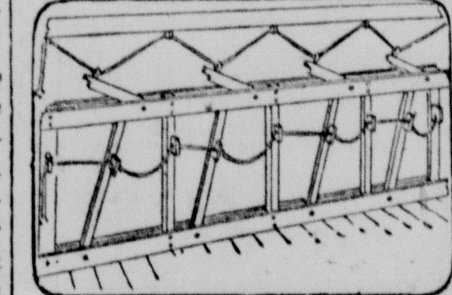

It is urged that all farmers and poultrymen adhere strictly to the following rules in handling their poultry and eggs:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.
5. Sell, kill or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season begins.

CONVENIENT IN DAIRY BARN

Illinois Farmer Describes Stanchion Device Used by Him in Fastening His Cows.

I am sending you a diagram of my cow stanchions, writes C. F. Battles of Lasalle county, Ill., in the Prairie Farmer. To make the closing device take a number of blocks one inch thick and four inches long; bore a half-inch hole through them edgewise, nail one on each of the stanchions, and one on each post forming the other side of the stanchion. Take a three-eighth-inch rope, put it through the hole in stanchion No. 1 and tie a knot; pull it through the block on the first post and measure to the next stanchion, tie another knot and pull through block, and so on, to as many stanchions as you have. The stanchions should all be closed before tying the knots. If you get the knots right, one pull will close every stanchion.

Stanchion Device.

To make the opening device, fasten a ring in each latch and another a few inches above and half way between the rings on the latches. Take a strong twine—I have had the best results with seine twine—and fasten it at the end, No. 2, and then draw it through the latch ring and then the next ring above it and so on to the end of the row. One pull will open them all, or you can open or close any one of them the same as without the strings to them.

Value of Cleanliness.
Keep the cows clean by a daily brushing. The cow with a clean skin is, of course, the most comfortable, and comfort insures a better digestion.

General Christmas Secures Nineteen in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Leo Christmas, a soldier of fortune, has just completed a recruiting campaign in Chicago on behalf of General Carranza, head of the constitutional forces of Mexico. Christmas left for the border last night with 19 recruits. He was liberally supplied with money and promised pay ranging from $200 to $500 a month. Funds for the recruiting campaign—$100,000, according to one report—are said to have come from American capitalists whose important interests in Mexico have suffered severely from disturbances of the last three years.

The Canal Under Stevens.

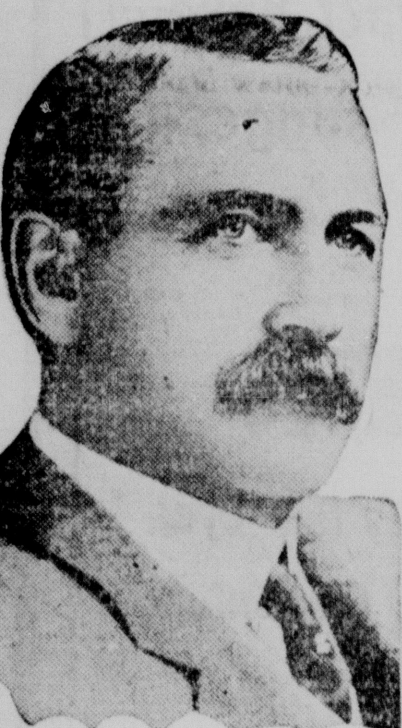

ANOTHER notable figure in the railroad world had been chosen chief engineer of the Panama canal, John F. Stevens in 1903 was general manager of the Great Northern Railroad company, and of his selection as chief engineer James J. Hill said that if the whole country had been ransacked no better man could be found.

It is not possible to estimate the mischief that might have resulted if the selection of a successor to Mr. Wallace had been long delayed. His salary was to be $30,000 annually, or $5,000 more than that paid to Mr. Wallace. He was facing a situation in Panama that justified the figure.

The yellow fever epidemic was still uncontrolled. An invoice of the situation as left by Mr. Wallace showed that considerable pioneer work had been done, but the housing, feeding and general preparations for the comfort of employees were unsolved problems.

Mr. Stevens arrived at Colon on July 27, 1905. As a railroad man his eye first was attracted by the congestion of freight on the wharves and the self evident fact that the Panama railroad was in a near state of collapse. Freight was piled up in the streets in prodigious quantities and was moving over the railroad at a snail's pace.

As for the railroad tracks in the Culebra cut, he said they were "lines which by the utmost stretch of the imagination could not be termed railroad tracks." Mr. Wallace had found the Panama railroad, after half a century without competition, far behind the times in equipment, and practically no discipline or efficiency existed among the employees. When Mr. Stevens took charge there was an improved situation, but the long absence in Washington of Chief Engineer Wallace and his sudden departure had caused the railroad to begin a retrograde movement.

For thirty-one miles the main line of the railroad had been retracked with American rails, and the work of double tracking it was just getting under way. The principal shops were at Matabien, with a capacity of overhauling five locomotives and 150 dump cars a month. The canal employees soon saw the caliber of man at their head by the way Mr. Stevens straightened out the railroad tangle, for the freight began to move, law methods were rooted out of the system, and the semblance of an efficient organization, operating along modern lines, appeared.

The commission visited the isthmus in July and August and with Mr. Stevens reached the conclusion that construction work should be reduced to a minimum, even to turning away employees, and all energies bent to building up a system of feeding and housing the men and their families. Preparatory work was given the right of way over construction, which accounts for the comparatively little excavation done under the Stevens regime. The general verdict was that the ground work done by Mr. Wallace was good in spite of disorganized conditions and that no insuperable obstacles stood in the way of building the canal.

There were 8,312 men in the department of engineering and construction and other employees brought the total to 9,500, not including the Panama railroad. Municipal improvements in Colon and Panama and certain canal zone towns were well under way. Effective progress had been made in the work of surveying the canal route, in making borings for lock sites and in other engineering preliminaries. As noted, 741,644 yards had been excavated and nine steam shovels were at work. The renovated French structures and forty-eight new structures housed the employees, except those who provided shelter for themselves in Colon and Panama. There was no commissary and no hotels.

An executive order had made the civil service cover the canal zone on Nov. 15, 1904, but both Mr. Wallace and Mr. Stevens protested so earnestly against the restrictions of this order that on Jan. 12, 1906, President Roosevelt removed all employees except clerks from the scope of the act, thus allowing Mr. Stevens to employ any one he saw fit on any terms he chose. The eight hour day restriction likewise was lifted, but agitation in the United States caused the president later to reimpose both limitations, with whatever increase in time and cost of constructing the canal they might involve.

The Americans had been in Panama more than a year, and still the type of canal to be built was undecided. In the meantime Mr. Stevens rapidly was rounding into shape an organization of workers, getting suitable quarters erected for the employees, who were coming in large numbers, organizing the commissary and hotel systems, securing mechanical equipment and bringing the transportation facilities to a satisfactory standard. Governor Magoon simultaneously was organizing a civil government along the lines blazed by Governor Davis. Police, courts, schools, fire departments, post-offices, recreation clubhouses, churches—in short, duplicating on a scale suitable to the canal zone the civilization of the United States.

By June, 1906, the end of his first year as chief engineer, Mr. Stevens had made a remarkable showing in every phase of the work. There were thirty-nine steam shovels at work as against nine in 1905. The working force had increased to 23,901, of whom 3,264 were Americans. But as showing how closely his efforts were concentrated on preparatory work the total excavation for the year was only 1,499,562 yards, the highest figures for one month being in March, 1906, when 239,178 yards were removed.

Colonel Gorgas and his sanitary department got on top of the yellow fever epidemic in September, 1905, and in general so dominated the hitherto unbridled isthmus that even the hostile press began to show a change in heart on this score, with the result that the immigration of workers largely increased. Recruiting agencies already had been opened in the West Indies, Europe and the principal American cities. More than 12,000 men were imported in 1906 on contract with the commission. The common labor was estimated by Mr. Stevens to be about 33 per cent as efficient as similar American labor. It was not until 1906 that the wives and families of the Americans began coming to the canal zone in considerable numbers, although there had been a heroic band of them throughout the trying days before the tropical terrors had been conquered.

Early in his connection with the canal Mr. Stevens discovered that practically all the material in the Culebra cut would have to be blasted before it could be handled by the steam shovels. He had to be careful in selecting dumps so as to insure that they would not become an obstruction to any type of canal or route that might be selected.

The high wages and salaries for which the canal zone is noted originated under Mr. Stevens. So had a name had been given the isthmus in the past that extra inducements had to be made to attract workers, free quarters, pay from 30 per cent to 60 per cent higher than in the United States and a rate of $20 from New York to Colon on steamers operated by the government, with other perquisites, being some of the advertised attractions. Besides, in the latter part of Mr. Stevens' regime, the United States was enjoying unexampled prosperity, the palmy days before the panic of 1907. Mechanics and all kinds of workers could obtain employment at home at high wages and would not come to Panama unless for the unusual inducements enumerated, and, in addition, vacations with full pay, sick leave on pay and cheap food and other necessities.

Although the French had abandoned the idea of a sea level canal in favor of a lock type, there still was a good deal of life in the idea among the American people. For one thing, a sea level canal was so much more easily grasped by the popular mind, and then all engineers concede that it is the ideal canal where it is practicable. In Panama division of opinion arose over this point of practicability.

A sea level canal aptly has been described as "a wide and deep passage navigable at all times, day or night, at all seasons and in all weathers by all sorts and sizes of vessels." The lock type involves operations not readily portrayed to the lay mind, but em-nently simple when seen in practical use.

The Walker commission of 1901 had estimated the cost of a sea level canal at $145,000,000. The commission of 1905 recommended a sea level type to cost $230,500,000. Mr. Wallace later estimated the cost at sea level at $300,000,000, exclusive of the $50,000,000 paid for the canal zone and French property.

That these American estimates should come in the main, under the amount actually spent by the French, who little more than scraped the surface, shows, for one thing, that the Americans believed there had been gross extravagance and inefficiency in the French operations and, for another thing, that the Americans had no adequate grasp upon the task they were undertaking. This same insufficiency of estimates continued until 1908, when Colonel Goethals faced the situation frankly and announced the cost for a lock type to be $375,000,000, which was far ahead of the highest estimate for a sea level canal. In 1909 Colonel Goethals said a sea level canal would cost $563,000,000 and take six years longer to build than a lock canal, which was before the slides in the Culebra cut became so formidable and a sea level canal had been shown thereby to be all but impossible.

President Roosevelt took a characteristic step to end the dispute. On June 24, 1905, a few days before the appointment of Mr. Stevens as chief engineer, he named an international board of advisory engineers to recommend a type of canal.

Out of this board five were foreigners and eight Americans. The board visited the isthmus in October, 1905, and reported to the president on Jan. 10, 1906. The majority, composed of eight engineers and comprising all of the foreigners, recommended a sea level canal. Messrs. Davis, Burr and Parsons were the three Americans who signed the majority report. The minority of five Americans recommended a lock type canal with a lake at eighty-five feet above sea level formed by a dam across the Chagres river at Gatun. They estimated the excavation at 103,735,000 cubic yards and the cost, exclusive of sanitation and civil government, at $139,705,200. Nine years, or until 1915, was the time estimated for completing the canal. There were to be three locks in flight at Gatun, each 95 by 100 feet usable dimensions and on the Pacific side one lock at Pedro Miguel and two at La Boca, at the entrance, the distance between Pedro Miguel and La Boca, eight miles, to be a second artificial lake. The Culebra cut was to be 200 feet wide for five miles and 300 feet wide for four miles.

Chief Engineer Stevens and all but one member of the commission concurred in the minority report. Secretary Taft's visits to the isthmus had converted him to the lock type, and President Roosevelt consistently had favored it.

The situation was one where the choice would be decided by the weight the president should throw to either report. To reject the majority report favoring a sea level canal and to advocate the minority report for a lock type canal was a responsibility of unusual magnitude for an executive who professed to have no technical engineering knowledge. Yet President Roosevelt made the momentous decision without hesitation, sending a strong message recommending the minority report.

Congress debated the issue until June 21, when the senate by the close vote of 36 to 31 decided for a lock type, and on June 28 the house concurred, the bill becoming law on June 29, 1906.

Two years and two months had passed from the time the Americans came to Panama in May, 1904, to July 1, 1906, before this decision was made, and at last the commission knew what plan of canal was to be followed. In September, 1906, Mr. Stevens started the excavations in the sites for the Gatun locks, the Pedro Miguel lock and the Gatun dam spillway. Surveys were begun for relocating the Panama railroad, which for a considerable distance would be swallowed up by the completed canal. The fifteen months' preparatory work was beginning to tell in the increased excavations in the Culebra cut, as the organization was getting its stride. Commissaries, which sold everything the canal employee needed, were in operation in the principal towns, the hotels for the bachelors were well organized, quarters had been erected until all were housed, though at times rather crowded; machinery, supplies and equipment were on hand or ordered to the extent of 80 per cent of what would be needed to complete the canal, health conditions were satisfactory and the whole situation tion was shaping for the real work of building the canal.

President Roosevelt paid the canal zone a visit in November, 1906. It was a trip of exploration for him, and the way he ignored the formal plans for his entertainment delighted the employees. Subordinate officials were rather anxious that he should inspect just the things they had spick and span for him to inspect, but from the time he landed at Colon he ate and nosed in and out of every part of the canal and led them a merry chase. The enthusiasm for the "daddy" of the project was boundless, and the shortcomings he noted resulted in better conditions of employment for the men.

One evidence of the growing luxury of living conditions in the canal zone was the installation on Jan. 1, 1907, of electric lights in the quarters of the married and bachelor employees at Empire and Culebra. Other towns soon were furnished with electricity. The first public school had been opened a year before this event, or on Jan. 2, 1906. The summer and fall of 1906 and the winter of 1907 saw another great controversy raging around the canal, which, like the battle of the levels, was to be decided arbitrarily by President Roosevelt.

Chairman Shonts long had entertained the opinion that the canal should be constructed by private contractors. He pressed the plan so vigorously and the popular opinion of the inefficiency of the government was so strong that the president authorized Secretary Taft to ask for bids on Oct. 9, 1906.

Bids for constructing the canal by private contract were opened at Washington on Jan. 12, 1907, and rejected on the ground that they failed to meet the requirements of the government. The real reason for rejecting the bids was that both the country and the administration had undergone a change of heart as to the wisdom of the contract plan.

Another epoch in the life of the canal project was marked by the president's action in definitely committing the enterprise to direct government supervision. Chairman Shonts resigned, effective March 4, 1907. An executive order then consolidated the offices of chairman and chief engineer in Mr. Stevens. On March 16 the remainder of the commission, except Colonel Gorgas, resigned, to be followed on April 1 by the resignation of Chief Engineer Stevens. His resignation came like a sickening accident to the canal employees. "The chief," as he was called familiarly, had established himself firmly in their minds and hearts as a thoroughly competent engineer and just administrator.

10 CENT "CASCARETS" IS YOUR LAXATIVE

Best liver and bowel cleanser and stomach regulator known

Get a 10-cent box.

Put aside—just once—the Salts,

Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passage through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food, and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Bile, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

Discovery of Fire.

When and in what manner fire was discovered is unknown. The art of producing fire appears to have been one of the very earliest achievements of man. No people have ever been found without it. Its use may have been suggested to man by the lightning, or by the volcano, or by the accidental spark produced by the use of the stone weapons or utensils, but at any rate its use was discovered so long ago that the memory of the race runneth not to the contrary. Of course, it goes without saying that the use of fire lies at the root of all human progress. The "iron age" which is pre-eminently the age of true civilization, would have been impossible without fire.

Silage for Calves.

Calves at the age of three or four months will consume some silage if care is taken to pick out the leafy portions for them. It does not take them long after this before they will consume a considerable quantity of silage.

FINAL BATTLE ON CURRENCY BEGINS

Two Reports of Divided Banking Committee Presented in the Senate.

DEBATE ON MEASURE TODAY

Owen Will Argue for Wilson Bill and Hitchcock for Republican Draft—To Consider Hetch Hetchy Act

Washington, Nov. 24.—The currency bill, with the amendments proposed by the divided senate banking and currency committee, was laid before the senate on Saturday. Debate on the measure began, but the final vote is not expected much before February 1.

The two factions of the committee, headed by Senator Owen and Senator Hitchcock, filed their divergent views on the administration measure and the bill as passed by the house was made the "unfinished business" of the senate.

Senator Owen fired the opening gun in the debate for the administration forces. Senator Hitchcock will follow with an attack on the administration's position of his faction of the committee. From today until the end of the special session, a week off, senators will make set speeches discussing the currency reform problem.

Vote About February 1.

Although the administration finally has succeeded in getting the currency bill before the senate, other obstacles which threaten to delay the measure are apparent. On December 1 the senate will set aside the currency bill and by agreement take up the bill to give San Francisco the right to use a water supply from the Hetch Hetchy valley. The measure will be disposed of by December 6, but on December 8 the senate has agreed to take up a bill giving the president authority to build a government railroad in Alaska. This may be set aside in favor of the currency bill.

Senate leaders were not inclined to predict when the currency bill might be finally acted upon, but it was declared certain that its consideration would run well into next year, probably up to about February 1.

The report of the administration Democrats reviewing the differences in the committee, concludes:

"These differences arise in the main because of two schools of thought, one part of the committee believing in a central bank administered by a central board, and the other part of the committee proposing to establish a number of comparatively independent district banks administered by boards of directors chosen from the several districts."

Four Banks as Compromise.

The report submitted by Senator Hitchcock declared many amendments it recommended had been endorsed in the entire committee before the administration and anti-administration forces separated, and added that its signers were generally in favor of a government-owned central bank.

"Waiving a strong preference which prevailed in committee in favor of a single government bank with branches," said the report, "we accepted the regional bank plan as the only hopeful outlook for action by this congress, but retained the amendment substituting four regional banks for twelve. While the single government bank plan would produce the only perfect mobilization of reserves, as has been demonstrated by the experience of other countries, the adoption of four regional banks under a single control will, it is thought, approximate this result and, in a country as large as ours, with so many banks, probably prove efficient."

FEWER HUNTERS ARE SLAIN

Low Ratio Due to Growing Care in Use of Arms.

Milwaukee, Nov. 24.—With the deer season in northern Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan more than half over, there have been only 15 hunters killed and as many more badly injured out of the total of 40,000 hunters in the Wisconsin woods, and fully 15,000 in Michigan.

"You city people must realize," an experienced hunter said, "that this is not such a bad showing as might at first be supposed. With 50,000 to 60,000 people in the woods, all using high power, long range rifles, it is a wonder there are not more casualties, and that the death list is not longer, must be credited to the greater care being exercised by hunters."

TEN MAINE HUNTERS KILLED

Unusually Large List of Fatalities Registered on North Coast.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 24.—Thus far in Maine's shooting season, which began on November 1, ten persons have lost their lives by accidental shooting or through being mistaken for deer. One guide was drowned. For many years the fatalities in Maine have averaged from 13 to 15, but as the deer season has more than three weeks to run the record this season may exceed that of any previous year. Of the ten persons killed three were mistaken for deer.

WILSON WEDDING? DRESS REHEARSAL

Participants in White House Nuptials Tomorrow to Get "Lay of the Land."

GUARD PAIR FROM CURIOUS

Police Protect Miss Jessie Wilson and Frances B. Sayre While They Attend Church—Honeymoon Plans Not Announced.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Clad in all their wedding finery, with platform set and heavy carpet laid, the procession of the Sayre-Wilson wedding will today pass in rehearsal into the great east room and up to the altar where the couple tomorrow will take the vows which will make them one for life.

"The Sunday before the wedding" was begun at the White House by Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, the bride-elect, accompanying the President and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson and the Misses Smith of New Orleans, house guests, to services at the Central Presbyterian church. The bridegroom-elect, Frances B. Sayre, also was one of the party.

It required the services of the police to keep back the curious in order that the presidential party might enter the church, and when the service was over six policemen were needed to hold back the crowd.

Gets Good Luck Gift.

On returning to the White House Miss Wilson opened a big package which had come for her from the minister of Peru and Madame Pezet. It contained a vicuna rug measuring almost six by five feet, of a soft cream color and faced with white cloth. The skin came from Peru, where the animal was found recently by a friend of the minister. A legend is to the effect that anyone possessing a white vicuna skin will always have a bright, happy life and good luck. The animal usually is of a tan color and it is rarely that a white one is found. The skin was mounted in Washington.

Among the latest gifts to reach the White House is a handsome silver vase from the Admiral of the Navy and Mrs. Dewey.

Rehearse Ceremony Today.

By four o'clock today the ushers—Benjamin B. Burton of New York, Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass.; Dr. Gilbert Horrax of Montclair, N. J.; and Charles E. Hughes, Jr. of New York—will arrive in Washington and will go to the White House for the rehearsal of the wedding.

This evening the bridal party will be entertained at a dinner and dance on the presidential yacht, the Mayflower. It has been suggested that Mr. Sayre and his bride will leave Washington on the Mayflower for the bridal tour, although plans for the honeymoon trip are kept a secret, it is said, from even the members of the White House family.

The wedding ceremony will take place in the east room of the White House at 4:30 o'clock.

Guests Mostly Old Friends.

Not more than a score of Washingtonians outside of the official circle have been invited. The guests, for the most part, are the old friends of the Sayre and Wilson families, and many of them arrived today.

"ARMY" MAY MEET TODAY

Booth Brothers Expected to Greet Each Other.

New York, Nov. 24.—General Ballington Booth, commander-in-chief of the Volunteers of America, and his brother General Bramwell Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation army, will have their long-deferred reunion to day, it was announced at the Volunteers' headquarters. A letter, sent a week ago by General Bramwell Booth, now here on his tour of the country, to General Ballington Booth, seems to have gone astray, otherwise an earlier meeting probably would have been arranged, it was said. The meeting of the brothers will be private. The two separated 17 years ago, when Ballington Booth organized a separate body after quitting his father, William Booth, founder of the Salvation army.

TO JOIN IN BOYCOTT ON EGGS

New York Body Gets Request From National Bodies.

New York, Nov. 24.—The heads of 300 local organizations of the Housewives' league, with a total of 700,000 members, were notified by telegram that the national executive committee of which Mrs. Julian Heath is chairman, had called a nation-wide boycott on eggs, according to an announcement made here.

Troops to Quell Navajos.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 24.—Four troops of the Twelfth United States cavalry passed through here bound for the Shiprock agency on the Navajo reservation, to quell an incipient uprising among the Indians there.

Policeman Killed by Robbers.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 24.—William F. Koger, a policeman, who was shot in a pistol fight with a gang of alleged box-car robbers, died of his wounds. Koger had been on the police force for 25 years.

HEAD AND NOSTRILS STUFFED FROM GOLD

"Pape's Cold Compound" Ends a Cold or Grippe in a Few Hours

Your cold will break and all gripe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound," every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dizziness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

FOUR U. S. SOLDIERS KILLED

Civilian Chauffeur Also Meets Death in Accident in Texas.

Texas City, Tex., Nov. 24.—Four United States soldiers and a civilian chauffeur were killed and another soldier was severely injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Galveston, Harrisburg & Henderson passenger train at Texas City Junction. The soldiers were stationed in camp here.

The dead are: John Livingstone, private, Battery D, Fourth Field artillery; John M. Parkinson, private, same company; Frederick D. Proctor, orderly, Eleventh infantry; Frudenthal A. Hill, private, Company M, Eleventh infantry; Wyly Sloman, chauffeur, Texas City. The man injured is Henry L. Smith of Company L, Twenty-sixth infantry.

POULTRY

POULTRY HOUSE ABOUT RIGHT

Building Described and Illustrated That is Well Arranged to Admit Plenty Sunlight.

I have a poultry house I think is about right. It is 12 by 16 feet, and will house 75 birds with ease, writes Mrs. R. B. Hammerli in the Farmers Mail and Breeze. It is four feet high on the north and six feet on the south. The roof has a nine-foot slope on the north and a five-foot slope on the south. Studding were set every two feet and drop siding was used to board up the walls. The roof is shingled. There are four windows on the south each with a double sash 22 by 28 inches in size and arranged so the top ones may be lowered. We did not want the open front style as we wanted it tight for fumigating and also to keep out beating storms. The upper sash are lowered most of the time, and during cold weather we have a muslin curtain to lower over the opening. Roosts are hinged to the north side and may be raised and fastened to the ceiling where they are out of the way for cleaning, etc. A good dropping board below keeps the floor in good condition. Nests are placed along the east and west sides. This house has a good cement floor which keeps out rats. This house admits plenty of sunlight and we have not had a frozen comb or sick chicken all winter.

CARE OF DUCKS IN WINTER

Any Kind of Green Stuff That Happens to Be Handy Makes Excellent Feed for Fowls.

During winter I feed my ducks any green stuff that I happen to have handy. Turnip, parsnip and carrot tops, cabbage leaves, beet leaves, onion tops, purslane, pigweed, tender crab grass, lettuce, radish, mustard, cut fine, all make good bulky feed.

These are dried in the shade during the summer and stored like hay. When I want to feed them a quantity is boiled for twelve hours and mixed with finely cut roots, such as potato, turnip, parsnip, carrot, onion and beet. Apples are also used, says a writer in the Orange Judd Farmer. These are all cooked.

Not much of one kind of plant is given at a time. Four measures of any one with four of corn chop to each of wheat bran, red wheat shorts and boiled fresh meat are fed as a mash—all the ducks will eat it up clean in a few minutes. If any of the mash is left, it is at once removed to avoid its getting sour. This feed is given twice daily during the winter and three times in spring. It has always proved satisfactory.

POULTRY NOTES

Clean soiled eggs.
Get a reputation for selling fresh eggs.

Do not keep eggs in a cellar or damp place.

Let the old roosters go before they eat their heads off.

About ten ducks are required to make a pound of feathers.

If chicken keeping doesn't pay don't be in too big a hurry to blame the chickens.

Goose feathers being more oily are apt to sooner turn rancid than chicken feathers.

Crude carbolic acid and coal oil make a fine disinfectant. Use a continuous sprayer.

A sovereign remedy for limberneck is four drops of turpentine in a teaspoonful of water.

Charcoal is a wonderful tonic at this time. See that the fowls get all they want of it to eat.

Poultry breeders need to know as much of the breeding worth of a fowl as cattle breeders of a bull.

The man with a fine lot of young chickens to sell, now is the one who has a smile that won't come off.

One sick chicken soon infects a whole flock. It is always safest to remove a bird at first signs of illness.

The essentials of poultry raising are cleanliness and close attention, coupled with hard work and common sense.

Supply hens with plenty of crushed oyster shell. The shells coats little and means much if it's winter eggs you are working for.

The hens relish green food of some sort and will amply repay you for the trouble of chopping up cabbage, potato peellings, turnips, etc.

Any egg eaters in the flock? Make the nests as dark as possible; that will help. If that doesn't discourage the culprit, sharpen up the ax. In the long continuous poultry building it is desirable that an alley way be provided for the sake of convenience in passing through the building.

PERFECT CONFIDENCE

Dixon People Have Good Reason for Complete Reliance

Do you know how—
To find relief from backache;
To correct distressing urinary ills;
To assist weak kidneys?

Your neighbors know the way—
Have used Doan's Kidney Pills;
Have proved their worth in many tests.

Here's Dixon testimony:

N. W. Beal, 620 College Ave., Dixon, Ill., says "For a long time I had kidney trouble and it showed itself in various ways. I had rheumatic twinges and my back was stiff and lame, and when bending over, I could hardly straighten. When I was suffering intensely, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Leake Bros. Co's Drug Store. They gave me wonderful relief in a short time and I still use them, keeping my kidneys in good shape. All I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago holds good and I am glad to confirm that statement."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Beal had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

ALL SALOONS CLOSED

Supreme Court of Iowa Rules Against Dram Shops.

Bars at Des Moines Suspend When Decision of High Court Is Announced.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 24.—All saloons in Des Moines must close at once, according to a decision handed down by the Iowa supreme court. The decision ends the appeal of the liquor interests in Iowa.

Within an hour after the decision had been handed down officers served the saloon keepers with notices to quit business. By 5:30 o'clock virtually every one of the ninety-odd saloons had closed their doors.

In some places the saloon keepers ejected their patrons, but in others "final drinks" were permitted. The court held that the petitions of consent required by the state law for the opening of saloons were insufficient, reversing the decision of Judge James P. Hewitt of the district court.

Columbus, O., Nov. 24.—Forced to close under a state license law that limits the number of saloons in "wet" territory to one for each 500 of population, the proprietors of 3,300 dram-shops throughout Ohio held auctioneer and bargain counter sales of liquors until midnight. In some places wine-rooms celebrated the closing with special music and dance. In Youngstown bottles of all kinds of intoxicants were thrown into baskets and offered as "Last Chance; $1.50 a bushel." The saloon keepers had been denied renewal of licenses. Most of them were in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Toledo.

Gotham Mayor-Elect Files Campaign Expenses.

New York, Nov. 24.—The total cost of the fusion campaign that resulted in the election of John Purroy Mitchel as mayor of New York city was $129,519, according to the report of Charles L. Bernheimer, treasurer of the citizens' municipal committee.

Among the large contributions to the fund were Andrew Carnegie, $7,500; Jacob H. Schiff, $6,000, and Cleveland H. Dodge, George W. Perkins and John D. Rockefeller, $5,000 each. Many women contributed. The committee collected a total of $131,787, leaving a balance in the treasury of $2,268.

DROPS "BOMB" ON CRUISER

Silas Christofferson From Biplane Hits Steaming Target at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—As the United States cruiser South Dakota steamed in through the Golden Gate Silas Christofferson in a biplane swept over the warship and dropped a sand "bomb" that struck the vessel squarely amidships. This was a feature of an aviation meet that was not on the program. It happened that the cruiser entered the bay at the time the aviators were preparing to take part in a bomb-dropping contest at a target in the water.

Panama Canal Annual Report.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The annual report of the Isthmian Canal commission, compiled by Colonel Goethals, chairman and chief engineer, was made public today. Having been written previous to the blowing up of the Gamboa dike, it contains little of general public interest that was not printed at the time of that event. In closing the colonel says the passage of commercial vessels through the canal is dependent upon the time when proper channels can be dredged through the slides, and if additional ones occur they will necessarily advance the date.

Sherman's Daughter Is Dead.

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Minnie Sherman Fitch, wife of Lieut. Thomas W. Fitch, U. S. N., retired, daughter of William Tecumseh Sherman, died at Gulfport, Miss. The remains were taken to St. Louis Sunday for interment beside the body of General Sherman.

Women Workers in Japan.

The Chugai Shogyo Shimbu has been investigating the question of female labor in Tokyo, and announces that various economic causes are driving women to seek their occupation in fields which have hitherto been occupied solely by men. The total of the female population is 752,000, of whom 191,000 seek their livelihoods outside their own family circle. Of these, maid servants number 59,000, dress-makers 26,000, and shop assistants 24,200. The barmaids and hotel servants number 20,000, while teachers and professional women are 14,500. The women workers of Tokyo form 80 per cent of the total working population of the capital. Among them widows and girls, ranging in age from 15 to 60, predominate.
